FIVE GEORGIA DISASTER RECOVERY CENTERS TO CLOSE SATURDAY: NINE REMAIN OPEN

ATLANTA –Five of the 14 Disaster Recovery Centers operated by the Georgia Emergency Management Agency and the Federal Emergency Management Agency are closing. Officials urge residents to go to the centers to meet face-to-face with specialists to get information or assistance with their recovery from the mid-September flooding.

“Traffic has slowed at the centers we are closing,” said GEMA Director and State Coordinating Officer Charley English. “That’s good news, because it means we’ve likely met most of the information need, and help remains available through other sources.”

The following Disaster Recovery Centers will close at 7 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 10:

- Carroll County. Old Greenway Medical Building, 590 Hays Mill Road, Carrollton, GA 30117
- Catoosa County. Learning Center, 36 Muskogee Trail, Ringgold, GA 30736
- Chattooga County. Trion School, 919 Allgood St., Trion, GA 30753
- Rockdale County. Government Annex, 1400 Parker Road, Conyers, GA 30012
- Stephens County. Stephens County Senior Center, 199 Hayley Drive, Toccoa, GA 30577

“It is important for people to understand they can still get help at one of the other Disaster Recovery Centers or through the FEMA Helpline at 800-621-3362,” said FEMA Federal Coordinating Officer Gracia Szczech.

Szczech said those affected by the storm should first register for assistance, either online at www.DisasterAssistance.gov or by calling 800-621-FEMA (3362) or TTY 800-462-7585. The toll-free numbers are staffed seven days a week, 7 a.m. to 10 p.m. Help is available in all languages.

They can then come to the Disaster Recovery Centers to check on the status of their applications, review information needed to process their claim, get help filling out loan applications from the Small Business Administration (SBA), get lists of places to rent, learn ways to rebuild safely, and meet with specialists from other disaster assistance agencies.
